Lend-Lease Talks Broken Off By U. S.

Russia Insists On Relaxation Of Trade Curbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States broke off Soviet-American lend-lease talks Wednesday because of Russia's refusal to settle its World War II debts unless this country lifted restrictions on Soviet trade.

U.S. negotiator Charles E. Bohlen and Soviet Ambassador Mikhail A. Menshikov met for only 35 minutes before the State Department announced termination of the discussions.

Wednesday's session was the fourth since talks began earlier this month. The negotiations had been viewed as a test of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's sincerity in implementing the "Camp David spirit" of friendship.

Wants Lower Tariffs

The State Department said Menshikov insisted that in return for any lend-lease settlement the United States give Russia the benefit of tariff reductions accorded other countries. He also sought long-term private loans for Russia in this country.

Bohlen replied that lend-lease settlement was a "prerequisite" to any recommendation by the administration that Congress lift trade restrictions.

Officials said they did not think the Russian attitude necessarily represented a new hard line. They said Khrushchev may simply have expected to get something in return for settling on lend-lease.

Reduces Demands

The United States sent Russia 10.8 billion dollars worth of lend-lease goods during World War II when both were allied against Hitler's Nazi forces.

After the war, this country wrote off all military and civilian goods used up in the fighting. But it asked for $1,300,000,000 to pay for civilian goods left over on VJ day on grounds it was fed into Russia's civilian economy.

Russia originally offered 170 million dollars and then, in January, 1951, raised the offer to 240 million dollars.

In August, 1952, the United States reduced its offer to 200 million dollars plus an additional settlement for ships sent to Russia under lend-lease. The Soviet Union then offered 300 million dollars.

Cubans Assail Ike Statement

HAVANA (UPI) — Government press and radio media Wednesday blasted President Eisenhower's policy statement on Cuban-American relations and President Osvaldo Dorticos scheduled a full-dress press interview to answer it formally.

There was no fixed hour for the Dorticos interview, to which national and foreign newsmen were invited.

Radio Mambi, a small Havana station, said Eisenhower's statement included "threatening words" and also "stupid references" to international Communism. (The President had expressed confidence the Cuban people would recognize the "intrigues of international Communism" in deteriorating Cuban-American relations.)

Barricades Reinforced By Settlers

Moslems Involved In Street Clashes Marked By Gunfire

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle's top representatives in Algeria broadcast appeals Wednesday for an end to the French settlers' uprising. In often placating terms, civil and military chiefs called for a return to work.

The insurgent foes of De Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria showed no signs of obeying.

Instead, they reinforced their barricades and kept weapons at hand in the streets of Algiers, where supporting crowds made idle by a four-day-old general strike sang the Marseillaise and shouted, "Algeria is French!"

There were street clashes in Mostaganem, the first such outbreak since rioting in Algiers Sunday claimed 26 lives. Mostaganem is a Mediterranean port of 50,000 about 200 miles west of Algiers.

Counter-Demonstration

The French Press Agency said gunfire burst out during a counter-demonstration after a throng of several hundred townspeople, mainly Moslems, had marched on the City Hall to ask for a resumption of work. The marchers shouted, "Long live De Gaulle! Long live the army!" and "Down with Massu!"

The last referred to the paratroop general De Gaulle relieved from command in the Algiers district for criticizing his policy.

Six persons were injured during the march. The Press Agency gave no details as to casualties in the shooting that followed.

De Gaulle's Hand Bolstered

In Paris, French political parties from the far left to the moderate right strengthened De Gaulle's hand with pledges reaffirming their support. The dominant Union for the New Republic backed him without reserve and condemned the insurgents as "maniacs of conspiracy."

De Gaulle called his Cabinet together again at Elysee Palace, guarded now by several trucks loaded of blue-clad Paris police in addition to the normal complement of a half dozen men.

It was announced the Cabinet had heard a report from Premier Michel Debre, who visited Algiers secretly Monday night, and approved instructions given to the military and civil commanders in Algeria.

Price-Fix Suit Filed Against Drug Concerns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two drug companies under fire from the Senate antitrust subcommittee were charged by the government Wednesday with unlawfully conspiring to monopolize the market in mild tranquilizers.

Henry H. Hoyt, president of Carter Products, Inc., was testifying before the group, defending his pricing practices, when filing of the civil suit in U.S. Dist. Court in New York was announced by Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers.

Committee Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said it appeared to him that Hoyt's company appeared to be saying "we will charge what the traffic will bear" in this country. Hoyt replied that there was no such intention.

Witnesses for the other company involved in the suit, American Home Products, also of New York, are to follow th Carter spokesman in the Senate inquiry into drug prices.

Carter produces Miltown tranquilizer pills, and American Home Products markets Equanil tranquilizer pills. Both are meprobamate, on which Carter holds the patent.

The government's suit asked the court in New York for an order designed to "establish free and unfettered competition in the sale of all drugs in which meprobamate is used as an ingredient."

The Justice Department said such an order could require Carter to make its meprobamate patent available to anyone desiring to use it without charge, or set up a licensing system involving reasonable royalties.

The suit charged that Carter and American Home Products had forced the public to pay artificially high and noncompetitive prices for tranquilizers and had discouraged development of products in which meprobamate might be used as an ingredient.

The suit said sales of Miltown and Equanil had totaled 40 million dollars in 1958. Robert A. Bicks, in charge of Justice Department anti-trust prosecutions, said the suit had resulted from an investigation started in 1952.

The subcommittee had data to show that foreign users of Miltown can buy it for as low as a fourth of the prices charged users of Miltown in the United States.

Capsule Tester In Good Shape

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — Airman I-C Bruce C. Barwise, the "guinea pig" in a cold water test of a small metallic capsule designed for escape from high-altitude airplanes, reported occasional leg cramps Wednesday but otherwise showed no strain from his lonely vigil in icy Buffalo Harbor.

Test officials from the Air Crew Effectiveness Branch of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, said the husky 34-year-old father of three daughters had completed the first 24 hours of his ordeal in excellent condition.

"Except for the leg cramps, which we expected and Barwise worked out quickly, he showed no discomfort," officials said.

If all goes well, Barwise will remain in the four and one-half foot high, 465-pound aluminum capsule until Friday afternoon. Sealed in the cramped quarters, no larger than an ordinary living room chair, the Bovey, Minn., native was dropped into the water just behind Buffalo's outer break-wall at 2:15 p.m. e.s.t. Tuesday.

Titan ICBM Fails 3d Straight Time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — The Titan intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM), biggest and potentially most powerful in the U.S. missile arsenal, failed for the third straight time Wednesday.

The Titan, which has not been launched successfully since last May 4, never got off the ground Wednesday in a test shot the Air Force had hoped would include the first firing of the 110-ton ICBM's second stage.

A malfunction in the first-stage engine occurred a split second after ignition and the engines cut off automatically, saving the Titan from destruction.

Belgian Congo Gets Freedom June 30

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The Belgian government Wednesday announced independence for the Belgian Congo on June 30.

African delegates to a round-table conference deciding the Congo's future cheered loudly when the announcement was made by Congo Minister Auguste de Schryver.

With the big question out of the way, the conference now must decide what form independence will take—a republic, federation or confederation—and what the Congo's future relations with Belgium will be.

Gamble, Grandmother Leave Court

Mrs. Katherine Geddes Benedict (right) holds newspaper up to face as she leaves Girls' Term Court in Brooklyn yesterday. She is followed by her granddaughter, policeman-escorted Gamble, brought to court on a wayward girl charge instituted by Mrs. Benedict, was paroled in her grandmother's custody after being made a ward of the court pending investigation of the charge. Mrs. Benedict's charge is part of her hard-fought fight against Gamble's romance with Andre Porumbeanu. (Story at bottom of page) (AP Photofax)

Dior Offers Blimp Shape

PARIS (AP) — Dior introduced the blimp shape Wednesday to do battle with Nini Ricci's new silhouette, splitting the world of high fashion into two camps.

One side is led by Dior's Yves Saint Laurent and the Cardin faction who want to bring back sacks and chemises, tents and trapezes.

The other, led by designer Jules Crabay of Nina Ricci, is all for flaring pleated skirts, small waistlines, and a shapely, flattering silhouette.

This year the battle is around the waist; hemlines are not even an issue. Everybody is for the knee-length skirt, sometimes showing just a flicker of kneecap.

Dior's showing seemed to be a critical success; the audience applauded enthusiastically. But on second thought, fashion experts admitted they had found no world-shaking originality.

What Saint Laurent calls "the silhouette of tomorrow" still has echoes of yesterday. The form most typical of his collection is a rounded or curved flare from bust to hemline — with bust, waist and hips lost en route.

Endurance Record Holder Hospitalized

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — Underwater endurance record holder Jane Baldasare is in a hospital in "very weak" condition and receiving nourishment intravenously, it was disclosed Wednesday.

The pretty, blonde New York housewife entered Baptist Hospital here less than 24 hours after she ended a record 100-hour endurance test in a nine-foot-deep water tank.

She was suffering from malnutrition, dehydration and a severe ear infection.

Heiress Taken Into Court On Wayward Girl Charge

NEW YORK (UPI) — Runaway 19-year-old heiress Gamble Benedict's millionaire grandmother took her to court Wednesday and won an order aimed at keeping the girl from eloping again with her Romanian-born married sweetheart.

The saga of the teen-age debutante and her 35-year-old suitor, Andre Porumbeanu, moved from the Benedict mansion in Manhattan to a Brooklyn court that deals with delinquent and runaway girls only a few hours after Porumbeanu flew in from Paris.

Gamble was declared a ward of the court and was paroled in the custody of her grandmother until Feb. 26. In the meantime, court officials will investigate the girl's background and question two detectives who apparently have kept track of her activities.

Eisenhower Says Nation Is Strongest

President, Nixon Launch Republican Political Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Half a continent apart, Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard M. Nixon launched the GOP political campaign Wednesday night with the President claiming his administration has made America the world's strongest military and economic power.

For his part, Vice President Nixon promised to defend the Eisenhower record with all his strength, although he refused to stand pat on it through the years in which he, himself, hopes to occupy the White House.

The President in Los Angeles and Nixon in Chicago spoke at $100-a-plate dinners staged by the Republican party to raise campaign cash and pour out tributes to the chief executive. Other "Dinners with Ike" called out the party faithful in more than 80 cities in 43 states and the District of Columbia.

Eisenhower steered clear in his prepared speech of attacking by name either the Democratic party or Democratic critics who have lit into his leadership in both the defense and domestic arenas. But there was no mistaking that he was swinging hard at both.

"Because of our insistence on adequacy and efficiency," he said, "militarily and economically our country is, over-all, the strongest power on earth, both militarily and economically."

Peace-Prosperity Theme

As did Nixon and other party orators across the nation, Eisenhower lay stress on the peace and prosperity theme — a theme the Republicans intend to sound over again in an attempt to make Nixon his successor.

Twice Eisenhower took aim at what he termed extremists.

"Republicans," he said, "have faith in America, her strength, her destiny. Yet in late years, the tendency to disparage the unmatched power and prestige of our country has become an obsession with noisy extremists."

And then again:

"Republicans, flatly reject the argument that the nation can pump its way to permanent prosperity by an outpouring of federal dollars. We are opposed to those extremists who argue that the federal government should become the master mechanics of our economy with sweeping authority to tinker with the free processes of the competitive enterprise system."

Eisenhower took a swipe, too, at "political morticians" he said are "exhibiting a breast-beating pessimism in the American system."

Eisenhower ticked off a list of government responsibilities in the field of national defense and the domestic welfare and said that all along the line the Republican record "is one to merit the confidence of every American citizen."

Closed Circuit TV

Eisenhower's speech went to all the GOP dinners by closed circuit television. Nixon was on the hook-up briefly, along with party stalwarts in half a dozen other cities. But the vice president's major talk was for Chicago listeners alone.

In it, Nixon said the record of the Eisenhower administration is outstanding. But he let it be known that he doesn't intend to base his campaign on this record without some changes in policy or programs.

In that vein, Nixon contended no aggressor can destroy the deterrent striking power of America and her allies. Yet, he said, the national defense system — a target of Democratic criticism — must be put under constant review and readjusted as needed.

While no administration has had more reason to be proud of its record in domestic affairs, Nixon said, unsolved problems pose exciting challenges.

So in general terms, devoid of details, he proposed a better educational system, constructive civil rights programs, top priority for an overhaul of farm programs, effective aid for areas of chronic unemployment, more adequate social security protection, and more effective methods of settling labor disputes, without government controls.

Nixon thus appeared to be working out a campaign strategy of offering a six-point domestic program with his own stamp on it plus assurances that he intends to combat what he termed the massive challenge of Soviet communism on both the military and economic fronts.

Three Drown In Army Ranger Training Mishap

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — A simulated night assault on a northwest Florida beach through heavy surf brought death to two Army Ranger officers. The body of a third was still sought hours after the training accident.

The officers drowned when their rubber life raft capsized as they approached the gulf beach of near-by Santa Rosa Island late Tuesday night. They were among 140 Rangers assigned here temporarily for tough survival training. The group included 24 officers from foreign nations.

Farm Couple's Four Children Killed In Crash

MARTINSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. James Jessup had four healthy, happy children Wednesday morning.

Now they have none. All four died when their car was smashed into a crumpled pile of metal by a school bus which had discharged about 40 children only moments before.

Killed were James T. Jessup, 17, Richard, 16, Barbara, 13, and Janet 7.

The two Jessup boys ordinarily drove the four miles to the Eminence School, because the school bus passed while they were still doing morning chores on the family's 320-acre farm. The girls usually took the bus, except when they were late.

James was a high school senior, Richard a junior, Barbara in the eighth grade and little Janet in the second grade.

It was raining lightly, and a thin fog veiled the countryside when the four piled into the 1951-model car. James took the wheel. The auto had just come over a slight rise when James saw the approaching school bus on a bridge. Fearful of meeting the bus on the bridge, James hit the brakes.

Wet tires skidded on wet asphalt, and the car slid helplessly broadside into the path of the bus. The front bumper knifed into the interior of the auto and nearly emerged from the other side.

Langenfelter Awarded Oyster Shell Contract

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland had not been opened to competitive bidding, and also because all bids submitted were ineligible.

The Langenfelter bid compared with $150,000 offered by Arundel Corp. of Baltimore as the net cost to the state and $148,000 offered by Oyster Shell Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Southern Industries Corp. of Louisiana.

The two-year contract calls for the firm to dredge dead-oyster reefs in the bay and to supply 200,000 cubic yards — roughly 3 1/3 million bushels — of oyster shells. The firm is also expected to cooperate with the Tidewater Fisheries Department in surveying the bay in general for such reefs and dead-oyster deposits.

In exchange it gets permission to dredge up to 200,000 cubic yards of shells for commercial use and up to $40,000 — the difference between the $1.10 it will charge for each cubic yard turned over to the state and 90 cents it will pay the state for each cubic yard retained by the firm.

Regal Sandstone Ladies To Lose "Bridge" Home

BALTIMORE (AP) — Four Baltimore ladies—all somewhere in their 70's—soon will be homeless.

It probably won't bother the durable sisters. They are carved of sandstone.

All four, exemplifying the original Lady Baltimore, have resided at the four corners of the St. Paul Street bridge since some time in the 1880's.

The bridge is being demolished to make way for a bigger one. Therefore, the regal ladies must be carted off to a city yard until someone figures out what to do with them.

When the bridge demolition began, city officials were without any historical facts concerning them. They had been there so long.

But Wednesday Bernard B. Perlman, art instructor and historian, came out with this story:

At least two of the ladies were the work of Herman D.A. Henning, a native of Elberfeld, Germany, and listed as "Baltimore's first sculptor." He died in 1893 at the age of 51. Probably the other two statues are copies of the two carved by Henning.

State Rests In Murder-By-Car Trial Of Connor

BALTIMORE (AP) — The state rested its case in the murder trial of Edward Richard Connor Wednesday after introducing a statement from the defendant which said he ran down his ex-wife with his car in an effort to mend their broken marriage.

Connor, 47-year-old mechanic from Camden, N.J., is accused of killing his divorced wife, Mrs. Dorothea Connor, 37, outside her home last Oct. 25.

In a statement given to Detective William Rawlings after Mrs. Connor died, the defendant said he intended to hurt his former wife "because of the hurt she had done to me."

Connor said he hoped "I would hurt her a little bit and put her in the hospital... hoping it would give me time to get my wife and family back together again."

As the third day of the trial ended, attorneys for the father of five daughters filed a motion for a directed verdict of innocent of murder in the first degree. Judge Gilbert Prendergast said he would hear arguments on the motion Thursday.

In the statement, the defendant said Mrs. Connor walked backwards with her hands on the hood as he put the car into gear and moved forward.

"I stepped on the gas and she disappeared from in front of the car and I heard a bump," the statement said. "I kept on going because I thought she would be hurt just a little bit and would go on to the hospital and I kept on going."

Judge Harris To Decide In Zoning Dispute

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris heard arguments yesterday in Circuit Court in the appeal of Emmett Dougherty, who operates a garbage collection service for the city, from a decision of the Board of Zoning Appeals in denying him a permit for a building to house his trucks in South View Addition.

Thomas B. Finan, attorney for Dougherty, in his opening statement declared that his client had purchased lots in the addition prior to applying for the permit and had also inquired of the city engineer if a permit would be granted prior to the purchase. Finan also stated the lot is located on one side of Fourth Street and that it is zoned for business while the other side, with the exception of a portion where the Potomac Edison Company service center is located, is zoned residential.

Dougherty had been granted a building permit and later on the Mayor and City Council revoked the permit. Finan said that in a number of cases in Maryland courts it had been decided that a plebiscite among neighbors in an area was not sufficient reason to revoke a permit. He also said there was not sufficient evidence in the transcript of the zoning appeals case on which to base a decision.

William R. Carscaden, city attorney, said that the erection of a garage building would be acceptable, but the Mayor and Council acted in revoking the permit on the basis there would be noxious odors and noise emanating from the premises and this would depreciate the value of homes in the residential area.

Finan said the Health Department had reported there were no odors coming from Dougherty's present garage building. Judge Harris inquired about the size of the proposed garage and the number of trucks which would be housed. Both attorneys, in their briefs previously agreed upon as to statement of facts, said the structure would be 40 by 78 feet and of one-story type. The lot is 112 by 100 feet in size.

Carscaden said the city had a right to revoke the building permit and he also told the court it should decide if an occupancy permit should be granted. Carscaden said that if both questions were decided it would obviate another court case.

Judge Harris took the case under advisement and will file an opinion at a later date.

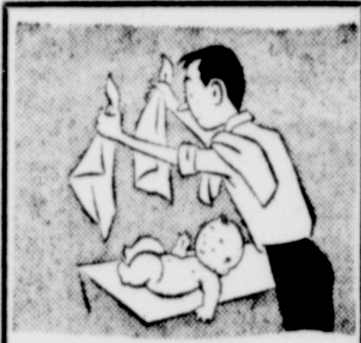

Teamsters' Credit Union Will Meet

The Federal Credit Union of Local 453, Teamsters Union, will meet Friday at 8 p. m. at the Labor Temple on South Liberty Street.

Officers will be elected followed by a financial report and declaring of the annual dividend.

Home Permit Issued

The city engineer's office has granted a permit to Mrs. Mae L. Smith, 130 Elder Street, for the construction of a one-story residence on that street. Estimated cost of construction is $6,000.

FAR NORTH ROUNDUP

Reindeer are the cattle of Lapland, the bleak, barren land that stretches across the northern part of Norway, Sweden and Finland. From them the Lapp gets his tent, his blanket, part of his clothing, and his food.

Some of the reindeer wander wild, but others are herded like cattle on our western plains. They feed on mosses and lichens that cling to rocks and trees, visible above the snow that blankets the land for most of the year.

For the Lapps the most exciting time of the year is when they round up the reindeer from the snowy mountain pastures for the annual redivision among their owners. The big roundup is called the "Vendemia." It is a lasso-swinging operation in a setting of glistening white. The herdsman sing as they work.

Not only do the short, sturdy Lapps separate their respective herds into work animals and those destined for slaughter, but they also make this the occasion for their annual reunion with friends and relatives after long isolation in the snowy wastes some 200 miles north of the Arctic Circle.

PROUD LAPP. Standing in the midst of his reindeer herd, a Lapp herdsman holds a young reindeer by the antlers.

Bunching and running together, these reindeer are being driven into an enclosure after roundup.

A reindeer calf is held for ear-marking. Each herd owner has his own ear markings.

Roundup time is happy occasion for reunion of friends and relatives after long isolation in the snowy wastes.

Local Cabs Inspected By Police

The City Police Department is conducting an inspection of the city's approximately 50 taxicabs in compliance with an ordinance approved last summer by the Mayor and Council.

The inspection resulted in several being rejected for operation Tuesday, and another yesterday. The inspections are made on a regular basis, according to Police Commissioner Philmore F. Fleming, who said they have resulted in safer and more sanitary service for Cumberland patrons.

Officer Louis D. Downey is conducting the inspections during which lights, brakes, steering, wheels, tires and glass must be approved for continued operation.

The cleanliness of the vehicles with regard to litter and dust on the seats and floors is also a factor in the inspection, Commissioner Fleming said.

An average of 15 to 20 taxis can be inspected each day, and rejected vehicles must report back for inspection before operating permits are returned.

Boxcar Fire Doused By Local Firemen

One of two units from Central Fire Company was able to get across the Union Street crossing of the B&O Railroad yesterday to answer an alarm to the Williams Street yards where a box car was on fire.

The engine truck passed over the crossing but the ladder truck was blocked by a freight train which was moving westward. The engine truck crew doused the blaze.

18 Attend GOP Dinner In Baltimore

Allegany County was represented by 18 persons at that $100-a-plate "Dinner With Ike" last night at the Lord Baltimore Hotel. President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon addressed the fund-raising affair via closed-circuit television. Ike's talk came from Los Angeles, while Nixon's came from Chicago.

The principal "live" speaker was GOP House of Representatives floor leader Charles A. Halleck who launched Maryland's 1960 campaign.

The Allegany County delegation was headed by J. Wallace Close, Allegany County chairman of the GOP finance committee.

United States Senator J. Glenn Beall also attended the affair. Others from this county who attended were Mr. and Mrs. J. Glenn Beall Jr., Woodrow Gurley, Edward T. Evans, Donald W. Mason, Fred H. Anderson, George Newman, M. T. Powers, William Oburn, Mrs. Arthur Verner, Lewis J. Ort, Earl Chaney, John White, Karl W. Bachman, Fred Steiding and Ernest B. Treat.

Local Hospitals Ask Curtailment Of Visits

Officials of Cumberland's two hospitals have requested the cooperation of residents to curtail the visiting of patients, due to an outbreak of virus infections.

Both Sacred Heart and Memorial yesterday reported an unusual high rate of flu, and local physicians feel people visiting the hospitals are bringing the "bug" into the institutions.

Physicians say the virus is lasting only 24 to 48 hours, and only a few persons have been hospitalized as a result of the infection.

However, persons visiting the hospitals with what they consider minor colds, are infecting patients, and in return the patients are passing on the virus to other visitors. The hospital administrators feel that if residents visit the hospital only when absolutely necessary the flu can be kept to a minimum.

Between the Fifth and Twelfth centuries, the people of the Western world seldom bathed, owing to the belief that it was injurious to the health.

Clearer Rules For Ex-Brass

Problem of what to do about former high officers of the armed services who retire, then enter civilian life and sell goods to the services has plagued the U. S. government for some time.

Currently each service deals with the situation differently and interprets the regulations differently. For instance, the Navy has a lifetime ban on selling while receiving retired pay—but this has been interpreted in different ways by different naval chiefs. And there are at least 29 other statutes and regulations in the field, affecting individual services or all.

The House Armed Services Investigating subcommittee has spent a year studying the matter. It now has proposed adding to the U. S. criminal code a prohibition against military or civilian officials selling to the Defense Department within two years of retirement or separation. Penalties for violation would range up to $10,000 and two years in prison.

In addition, the committee has advised the services to clean up abuses by regulation and by development of a code of ethics—and has warned that the committee will keep tab on progress.

As long as the laws and rules are not clear, they will be interpreted differently. And as long as they are, some individuals will take advantage of them to make an unethical dollar at the expense of the public.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Neo-Luddites

Roger Townsend of Mansfield, Ohio, discusses one of the most pressing social problems in a letter to me. He writes:

"You are probably aware of the fact that over three million American people are unemployed. If the unions permit industry to use automation at will, it wouldn't be very long until there would be only about three million people employed. If the American people are not working and earning money how are they going to have purchase power? Who do you think keeps the economy stable? Is it the few industrialists or the every day working man who earns his weekly pay and then purchases what he wants? To make it crystal clear—how can a company produce goods if there is no market for the goods? The only way you can have a healthy economy in any nation is to have high purchasing power. I wish you would explain to me in detail your theory as to how purchasing power can improve if the unions permit industry to use automation at will."

This is no new problem. It began with the Industrial Revolution. This revolution was marked by "the mechanical inventions in weaving and spinning, the development of new motive power, the building of factories, the marvelously increased production, the shift of population from the country to the towns." This change threw many hand laborers out of work. I quote from Professor Carlton Hayes's "Modern Europe":

"... the poorest classes, thus condemned to forced idleness, avenged themselves by destroying the machinery to which they naturally attributed their unemployment. These so-called Luddite riots, which had begun as early as 1811, reached their climax in 1816 when social disturbances and wanton destruction of property occurred in every part of the country."

The workmen who went out to smash the machines were called Luddites after Ned Ludd, a village idiot, who wearing of being teased, smashed a couple of stocking frames. Despite the Luddites, the population of the world has increased, the work force of the world has increased and industry has become mechanized beyond the imagination of the first inventors of steam driven machinery.

The transportation system of the work which moved by horse power in terms of horses, donkeys, mules, oxen, camels and elephants is now horse power in terms of electricity, electronics, chemicals and atoms.

Every adjustment from one means of production to another raises social problems of smaller or greater dimensions. There can be little question but that two major factors in production are raising serious social problems in the United States:

On is increased automation. It is ridiculous to speak of automation as something new. It is a very ancient process. What is meant by automation is the increasing use of automatic procedures in relation to the production of goods by machinery. Automation is as old as the machine. What is happening now is that there is a rapid acceleration in the employment of more automatic devices.

After the initial development of steam-driven machinery, automation was used as labor saving devices. Then automation was employed to lift the burden of physical labor, as, for instance, the control of the movement of goods on the monorail within the factory. Now automation is increased by combining processes so that both labor and time are saved and the probability of man-made errors are eliminated.

Temporarily there is bound to be a dislocation of labor, the shifting of personnel from one industry to another, the increase in service employment, the increase in the blue collar and white collar elements.

The second, a social problem, presently associated with all these difficulties is that as a result of World War II, the United States has undertaken economic responsibilities which bring into this country goods manufactured at lower wages, paying less taxes and often subsidized by aid from the taxpayers of the United States. This means that the American worker, already hit by increased automation, has to compete with prices which are lower than can profitably be charged for American manufactured goods. This, more than automation, can throw workers out of work—not only workers but it can destroy entire industries.

Luddism is not the solution. If every automatic machine in this country were destroyed, it would not put an additional worker to work?

Another Step Toward Tyranny

The Most Hair-Raising Gamble In History

By Joseph Alsop

(The following article is the third in a series of six.)

WASHINGTON

The Eisenhower Administration is gambling the national future on the assumption that the Soviets cannot possibly have a number of operational ICBMs equivalent to ten months of capacity output at our own Atlas missile plant.

The fact sounds incredible when stated in this blunt manner. It is a hard fact nonetheless. The man who should know best, the brilliant Strategic Air Commander, Gen. Thomas Power, has flatly said that the Soviets can "virtually wipe out" our nuclear deterrent with no more than 150 intercontinental ballistic missiles, plus the IRBMs they already have in plenty. The Atlas plant has long been capable of turning out fifteen ICBMs per month, if ordered into three-shift production.

Yet no serious emergency measures are being taken to forestall the "wiping out" of our nuclear deterrent, on which our national survival depends. According to Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates, such measures are not needed, because the National Intelligence Estimates do not give the Soviets even the very limited number of ICBMs that Gen. Power says could win the war for the Kremlin.

There are several things to note about this gamble on the micrometric accuracy of the National Intelligence Estimates. In the first place, it is certainly not justified by the past record. This record shows a consistent series of gross American underestimates of Soviet weapons achievements from 1946 onwards.

From the atom bomb, to the first Soviet jet engine for aircraft, to the first Soviet long range jet bombers, to the ICBM itself, the estimators went on making the same kind of error. On average, the Soviets were always expected to make each major advance a good two years later than the actual moment when the advance was made.

Once, and once only, there was an over-estimate, of Soviet heavy bomber output. But this belated correction of previous mistakes about Soviet bomber capabilities was only an over-estimate because of still another gross under-estimate. At that time, the Soviet missile program was being all but ignored. The Soviet change-over from bombers to missiles was therefore wholly unforeseen.

In the second place, these persistent, often-repeated errors have clearly resulted from the very nature of the process by which the National Intelligence Estimates are still produced. The intelligence collector, the Central Intelligence Agency, does not produce the estimates. The C. I. A. may do, and by every feasible test the C. I. A. apparently does, a remarkable job of intelligence collection. But when data come in, say about the rate of Soviet missile tests, the C. I. A. must go into committee with the armed services and the State Department. The committee decides the meaning of the newly collected data. The committee's interpretation of the data is the "national" estimate.

C. I. A. Director Dulles, a devoted and exceptional public servant, has struggled to overcome the tendency to error in the estimates. But Dulles is not in the weapons producing business, along with the armed services. He hardly has a more effective answer than this reporter had, long ago, when the late Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg angrily insisted that the "Soviets could not

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

UNHOLY ALLIANCE—In the last session of Congress, the top-heavy Democratic majorities in both houses tried time after time to override Presidential vetoes of important legislation. They succeeded only once.

Republican strength to resist these override attempts came partly from unity in their own ranks. However, the real key was the informal coalition that has existed for years between the GOP and the large and potent bloc of southern conservatives.

Time after time, these two groups banded together to nullify the Democratic majority. Now pay-off time is at hand. The southern Democrats are collecting the debt owed them by the Republicans.

The southern group is opposed, of course, to any liberalizing of civil rights laws. Northern Democrats are just as determined to push them through this session of Congress.

In the House, the Rules Committee, which regulates the flow of legislation to the floor, is under control of the southerners. No civil rights legislation can get through this body. The practical way to by-pass this group is to have a discharge petition signed by half the House membership.

Such a petition has been in existence for many months. It carries about 150 signatures so far, or some 70 short of the number necessary to bring the legislation to the floor for debate and a vote.

Of the signatures already on the document, all but about 10 are those of northern Democrats. Republicans have refrained from signing it. Thus, the back-scratching technique of the coalition is blocking civil rights legislation—a goal pledged by Republicans and Democrats alike.

Powerful Congressman Squelched Drug Price Probe Two Years Ago

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The sensational disclosures Sen. Estes Kefauver has been making regarding the high cost of medicine would have been given to the American people two years ago if it hadn't been for a mysterious move by Rep. William Dawson of Chicago, senior Negro Congressman.

Dawson suddenly and mysteriously "reorganized" the probe by Congressman John Blatnik of Minnesota who had been investigating cigarettes, lung cancer, and slenderizing pills and was about to probe other drugs. The "reorganization" ended the investigation.

The incident shows how one man can deny the American public information which could have reduced the price of medicine for over a two-year period.

It also highlights another crack-down when the same Congressman Dawson abruptly stopped a probe of a highway scandal in Mobile, Ala.

Blatnik of Minnesota had sent an investigator to Mobile to probe a very smelly situation which might have cost the taxpayers $80,000. But suddenly, Congressman Frank Boykin, of Mobile, who helped found the White Citizens Councils and boasts of his close connection with the Ku Klux Klan, approached the senior Negro Congressman. The latter once again pulled the Investigator out from under Blatnik or Minnesota and ended the highway probe.

Note—Today Blatnik will testify before the Kefauver committee regarding the high price of drugs, which he wanted to probe two years ago.

Lipstick Smeared
It hasn't made the headlines of the battle over cranberries, but the battle of the lipsticks has continued unabated behind the scenes in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

It involves 17 colors of lipstick which the Food and Drug Administration has found to contain coal tars which cause anemia, heart trouble, and enlarged spleens when fed to laboratory animals, and will therefore ban from use by the women of America. However, the date when that ban will become effective has been periodically postponed at the request of the big lipstick companies.

Chief wire-pullers behind the scenes are Helena Rubinstein and Elizabeth Arden, operating through the Toilet Goods Association of which they are members.

Officials of the department of HEW, the over-all agency of Food and Drug, are embarrassed by the whole business for two reasons.

Embarrassment No. 1—The first lady of the land, Mrs. Eisenhower, has been the recipient of considerable hospitality from Elizabeth Arden at the famous "Maine Chance" reducing ranch near Phoenix, Ariz. In the winter of 1958, the President's plane carried Mrs. Eisenhower, her sister, Mrs. George Gordon Moore, and Mrs. Ellis Slater, wife of the Seagrams whisky executive, on a special trip to the Phoenix for the Elizabeth Arden beauty-reducing treatments.

Again last winter the first lady went to the Elizabeth Arden ranch, this time in a special car by courtesy of the Southern Railroad and the Southern Pacific. Most patrons of Elizabeth Arden pay around $100 a day at her Maine Chance ranch, but Mrs. Eisenhower was a nonpaying guest of Mrs. (Elizabeth Arden) Graham, who incidentally contributed $2,500 to Ike's re-election in 1956.

All this makes it embarrassing for Secretary Arthur Flemming, who so abruptly banned cranberries, to delay the ban against the 17 lipstick colors. Embarrassment No. 2—The fact that the 17 lipstick colors are not considered really harmful unless swallowed in very large amounts. This puts a certain amount of justice on the side of Elizabeth Arden, Revlon, Helena Rubinstein, and the others. However, the law is quite clear. And it specifies that if any food, drug, cosmetic, or anything else is harmful to laboratory animals, it shall be banned for use by human beings.

Since the 17 lipstick colors have definitely been found harmful when fed to laboratory animals, Food and Drug issued an order, effective January 1, that it would no longer certify these 17 colors as harmless, though actual sale through drugstores and beauty parlors would not be banned.

Shortly before January 1, however, the effective date was postponed to January 25. Meanwhile the big cosmetic companies, especially Elizabeth Arden and Helena Rubinstein, demanded public hearings. Public hearings are not required under the law. The law gives medical experts the flat decision.

However, Food and Drug has now delayed until February 1 the question of further postponement—the date of decision. Several million women who use lipstick will be watching for the outcome.

Squelching Rockefeller
Gov. Nelson Rockefeller can thank an enterprising Washington society reporter, Miss Betty Beale, for the fact that he got even a brief exposure on the closed TV circuit at the big GOP fund-raising dinner last night.

For a time Nixon forces, specifically George Murphy, the Hollywood star who arranged the program, had planned to shut out Governor Rockefeller altogether.

However, when Miss Beale reported in the Washington Star that the nation's capital would be represented by Howard University's Negro choir and possibly a housewife while the governor of New York would not even be at a head table in Washington, Nixon forces got worried. Abruptly the program was changed, and the man who bowed out to make way for Nixon was given a chance to be heard on TV.

What Missile Gap?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—The greatest danger America faces today is from its own politicians. They are trying to win votes while telling the Russians that America is weak in defenses. Fears that this might lead the Communist dictatorship to miscalculate and take chances are expressed by the highest military officers of the United States.

To make a political issue of the nation's defenses is risky business. Yet several of the Democrats who are seeking the Presidential nomination are regularly knocking their own country's defense position. They are doing so notwithstanding repeated statements from the military chiefs that the United States has an over-all striking power superior to that of the Soviets.

Perhaps the most severe criticism of the tendency to downgrade America's military position for the sake of politics has come from the highest military officer in our government—General Nathan F. Twining, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He isn't, of course, running for any political office. He merely represents the composite judgment of the Army, the Navy and the Air Force. He has just said in testimony before a House Defense Appropriations Subcommittee which was released a few days ago:

"General Twining: today we hear and read a tremendous volume of material comparing the strength of the United States and the free world with that of the Soviet Union and the Communist bloc. All too often the writers and commentators are inclined to degrade the capabilities of the American people and the peoples of the free world. At the same time, the efforts of the Soviet Union and the Communist bloc are reported in glowing terms."

"The plain and unadulterated truth of the matter is that the moral, military, physical and economic strengths of our people and of our allies have been adequate to resist and deter Communist aggression. I am confident that this will continue to be the case."

"Representative Mahon of Texas, Democrat (chairman of the subcommittee): now it is obvious to me that in this presentation (by Secretary Gates and General Twining), you have had in mind some of the critical things which have been said with respect to the capability of the United States and the Department of Defense. You have had in mind, I think, various columns in the press and statements made by various political and nonpolitical figures. I think we are all interested in one thing, and that is facing up to the truth and to the facts of life from the standpoint of national defense."

"General Twining, you spoke very feelingly about our defense capabilities. While you have not said so, I had the feeling as you spoke—and most of your discussion was off the record—that probably you feared that the United States was being sold short in the eyes of the American people and in the eyes of the world with respect to our military prowess. What is your feeling about that?"

"General Twining: We are in a position now, as you say, when we can annihilate each other. We must not let that ever happen."

"We have great strength, we are a powerful country, and I do not think we should downgrade our capabilities as a nation to the Russians. That is what gives me cause for concern—this downgrading of our capability. It looks like we are going to get licked every day. I am afraid that the public will become frightened some day. It sometimes appears to me that there is an element in the country that thinks 'gentlemen, we'd rather be red than be dead.' It is a serious thing."

"My point is, let us not downgrade our capability at a time when we are entering upon negotiations which may lead to peace and disarmament. We want to deal from strength. We have terrific strength in the military and in our country."

"Chairman Mahon: You have confirmed to me your feeling that you are deeply disturbed by the possibility that we might convince the opponents that we do not have the fighting strength which you feel we have."

"General Twining: That is right. If he thinks we are not confident of our national ability he may assume that there is an open gate for him. Similarly, we should not build up in our own people this lack of confidence in our national capability."

The foregoing testimony might be well worth taking to heart by all political candidates and their spokesmen. It seems incredible that politicians should think the voters could be convinced that General Dwight D. Eisenhower has not done his utmost to see that the United States possesses adequate military power to deter an enemy.

You're Telling Me

By William Ritt

Though he still sports that shaggy beard, by now most Cubans must have come to the realization that Fidel Castro is anything but Santa Claus.

Everybody should attend college for at least two years, declares an educator. But wouldn't that make us all pretty sophomoric?

An old saying, revised and modernized: one is a wanderer, two is company, three is a crowd and four is a summit meeting!

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Stephen Leacock, Canadian professor and humorist, once told his American colleague, Irwin Edman, a story about a practical college student. "I have decided," said the student, "that this fall I will take courses in Turkish, music and architecture."

"An odd combination," commented Leacock. "Do you expect to be choirmaster in a Turkish cathedral?"

"Not at all," answered the smiling student. "Those courses come at 9, 10, and 11 o'clock."

In a southern court, a local socialite, obviously overripe on the bough, stepped up to the witness stand. "Clerk," ordered the judge. "I will swear this witness in myself. Madam, how old are you?"

"Thirty-two, Your Honor."

simpered the witness. "Precisely," nodded the Judge solemnly. "And now, do you solemnly swear to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you God?"

W.Va. Hunters Study Problems Of Deer Season

Over 500 Attend Petersburg Meet

PETERSBURG—More than 500 persons attended a sectional meeting called by the West Virginia Conservation Commission Tuesday night here.

Clubs were represented from five West Virginia counties, including Hardy, Hampshire, Pendleton, Grant and Mineral.

John C. Ailes, Romney, a member of the commission, presided at the session which was called for the purpose of discussing West Virginia's deer season.

A variety of suggestions were offered at the meeting, however most persons attending voiced opposition to a two-week deer season.

Earl Orndorff, secretary-treasurer of the Mineral County Wildlife Association, went on record as being opposed to a hunters choice season, against bow hunting season and said hunters should not be allowed to hunt other game during deer season.

Judge H. Gus Muntzing, who represented 23 Hardy County clubs with membership of more than 500, said these organizations favor only one week of deer season, for bucks only, and warned the commission that if it permits more than two days of hunters choice the clubs will take action.

Judge Muntzing said that in the event the commission permits more than two days, his organizations will meet at the Baker Elementary School and organize a patrol to protect the deer. Judge Muntzing also stated that the Hardy clubs favor a one-week season for bucks only, and prohibiting the shooting of small game during deer season.

Raymond Dispanet, Hardy County school superintendent, spoke on safety and said he would oppose hunters choice from a safety standpoint.

Attorney William Ansel of Romney, who represented 16 Hampshire County clubs with a 700 membership, suggested a one week buck season, and said the commission should step slowly in opening a doe season.

West Virginia has a one-week deer season.

Bond Issue Proposed To Aid Jobless

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A bill to put jobless to work on various state college construction projects was introduced Wednesday in both chambers of the Legislature.

The measure calls for floating a $15,000,000 bond issue for construction at West Virginia University and state-supported colleges.

Minority Leader John Carrigan (R-Marshall) introduced the bill in the Senate. A duplicate was submitted in the House by Del. George Seibert (R-Ohio) and Julius Singleton (D-Monongalia).

Under the proposal, the bonds would be paid off by revenue from a special fund created by the 1959 Legislature for such work under a $50 per semester increase in college tuition fees.

Advocated by Gov. Cecil H. Underwood and presidents of the various institutions, the bond measure is designed to put unemployed to work now on these projects instead of waiting several years for the fund to accumulate the necessary funds.

Two other bills were introduced Wednesday pertaining to a 1959 act requiring the licensing of private detectives in the state. One called for repeal of the act, the other to amend it.

Del. John Goshorn (D-Kanawha), original sponsor of the law, asked that the measure be repealed. Goshorn said the act was not in the form he wanted in the first place and that, besides, he now is against the whole idea.

The other bill was sponsored by House Speaker Harry Pauley (D-McDowell) and Minority Leader Seibert. It asked an amendment so that policemen would not have to register as private detectives to take off-duty jobs such as guarding against shoplifting in stores.

Other bills would:—Continue for another year waiving of possible penalties under the school aid formula for failure to bring property assessments to the required level due to exemption of money from taxation under a 1958 constitutional amendment; by Del. James Haight, D-Wood.

—Raise license fees for pinball and automatic vending machines from $5 to $10 except that a pinball license would cost $25 if additional coins may be inserted to increase the winning odds; by Del. Paul Kidd, D-Gilmer.

Use your fragrance . . . sharingly, not sparingly.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Don't Waste A Scent!

To a woman who wants to feel as beautiful as she looks, perfume is never expendable. But it can be so spendable that a wise woman will do her utmost to make it last . . . down to the very last scent.

Be wary of that first chance for waste — opening the bottle. Approach that air-tight seal with respect. If the stopper won't budge, tap it gently around the sides with an ordinary glass tumbler, then patiently work it loose. For a resealing effect, blow hard on the stopper before replacing it.

You'll probably try a new fragrance first in a small-size container, to see how well you get along together. When you decide to treat yourself to a large fragrance, you can evade evaporation like this: Pour a share into the smaller bottle for everyday use. Seal the large flacon with paraffin and store it away in a cool, dark corner of a drawer, to keep it sweet for later tapping.

After dabbing yourself with scent-soaked cotton, you've worn the sprigs of cotton in tucked-away places. Don't discard them, save them . . . to tuck among your lingerie, your gloves, your hankies. Try hiding a fragrant fluff of cotton inside your purse, to deodorize old grocery lists and bus transfers. You might even put puffs of scented cotton inside your coat pockets.

When your bottle of perfume comes to the end of its career, stretch it with matching toilet water or cologne. Then, when the bottle is empty — but still fragrant — bury it among your lingerie.

Spray fragrance can play a special role in reminding you of your favorite scent. While you know better than to give fabrics and furs a direct dousing, can play the spray — from far away — to the linings of your coats and furs and to the inside hems of your dresses.

Add scent by the spoonful to the last used water after your shampoo. Dab it around your nostrils at bedtime, to help you drift off to sleep. (It works!) You can't be accused of wasting a scent if you allow it to work for you in all the many ways there are.

FRIDAY'S GAME!
Fort Hill at Martinsburg

HAGERSTOWN — Fort Hill's luckless Sentinels bowed for the 11th consecutive time to a school-boy varsity team here last night as North High's Hubs whittled the visitors from Cumberland, 50-44, in an overtime Cumberland Valley Athletic League battle.

Seeking their first win of the year over varsity competition Fort Hill hopped off to a big lead in the first quarter, then saw Coach Mel Henry's Hubs whittle the edge until Bill Riser's field goal with 3 seconds remaining tied the score at 38-all and sent the game into the extra period.

Coach Jimmy Eckard's Fort Hill quint, victorious only over an Alumni team, held the advantage at 14-6, 20-16 and 34-30 at the quarters. Bobby O'Brien's field goal for the Hubs tied the score for the first time at 34-34 with 6:30 to play.

Fort Hill jumped back ahead and led by two points at 38-36 when Riser's goal knotted the count again 3 seconds before the whistle sounded.

In the overtime period the Hubs outscored Fort Hill, 12-6, with Riser netting six points and Ronnie Hawkins four to lead the Hagerstown assault. Riser started Fort Hill down the road to defeat by hitting from the field and adding a foul on a three-point play as the overtime stanza got underway.

Both Riser and Bill Sheetz of Fort Hill fouled out in the extra period. Ronnie Hawkins paced the Hagerstown scorers with 14 points followed closely by Riser with 12. Top gun for Fort Hill was George Twigg with 16.

North High now is 7-6 overall and has a 3-3 mark in the C.V.A.L. Fort Hill's 1-11 record includes 0-6 in the conference. The line-ups:

D&E Defeats Shepherd, 90-69

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—Davis and Elkins hit 21 of 33 field goal attempts in the second half to crush Shepherd College 90-69 Wednesday night in a West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference basketball game.

Shepherd, which has won only 2 of 13 contests this season, trailed by only 34-30 at half time before Davis and Elkins found the range.

John Warren, who made 23 points for the winners, hit on 6 of 7 shots from the floor in the second half and Mike Maiden made a perfect 4-for-4. Frank Holsclaw paced Davis and Elkins, however, with 24 points for the entire game.

Jim Conner, with 25, and Jerry Hannas, with 17, led the losers, who dropped their sixth straight game. Shepherd's conference record is 0-8.

NFL Changes Constitution For Expansion

Dallas Expected To Join Today

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—National Football League club owners amended their constitution over the protests of two of their members Wednesday and thus paved the way for expansion to Dallas and possibly to Minneapolis-St. Paul in 1960.

It was believed almost certain that Dallas would be voted into the league either Thursday or Friday. However, there was a possibility the Minneapolis-St. Paul entry in the NFL might be delayed into 1961.

The owners by a vote of 10-2 with George Preston Marshall of the Washington Redskins and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wolfner of the Chicago Cardinals opposed, voted to revise the NFL constitution as follows:

"The National Football League shall be limited to 12 teams unless enlarged by a vote of 10-2 of the members of the league."

Halas Hails Change
Under the old by-laws, a unanimous vote of the owners was required for expansion.

"This paves the way for expansion if 10 clubs vote for a new member," said Pete Rozelle, who was elected new commissioner of the NFL Tuesday night.

"I'd say there's a chance the league will be expanded in 1960," Rozelle added. "We won't vote on admission of new members until Thursday or possibly Friday. We still would have to work out player distribution, how many teams are to come into the league, the date of admission and scheduling."

George Halas, owner-coach of the Chicago Bears and leader of the expansion movement, called the amendment "the most important change in the league rules in the last 25 years."

He refused to comment on the prospects for expansion, remarking simply, "I've got my fingers crossed."

Fears Court Action
Rozelle said NFL counsel Thomas Hart advised the owners they were on "solid legal ground" in their plan to expand.

Marshall, who had steadfastly opposed expansion, had presented a 14-page brief outlining his position to the league owners earlier this week.

The outspoken Washington president charged the only reason his fellow owners wanted to expand was to "destroy the other league (the American Football League). He warned that expansion would haul the NFL into federal court on charges of being a monopoly.

Signed To Scout

Hite will scout the northern West Virginia, northwestern Maryland and western Pennsylvania areas.

Lancaster Quits Orioles Position

BALTIMORE (AP)—President Lee MacPhail of the Baltimore Orioles announced Wednesday that John S. Lancaster has resigned as traveling secretary of the American League baseball club, effective Feb. 1.

MacPhail said Robert W. Brown, assistant public relations director of the Orioles, has been appointed to replace Lancaster. Brown will continue to assist on publicity matters.

Lancaster, 30, will accept a position outside of baseball. A native of Westfield, N.J., he has been with Baltimore's farm department and front office since 1955. He was public relations director from February 1957 until he was named traveling secretary in January 1959.

Brown, 28, like Lancaster a graduate of Amherst College, has been with the Orioles since November 1957.

Victors Remain Unbeaten With 9th Conference Win

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Piedmont's rampaging Lions remained one of two unbeaten teams in the area last night by turning back the Moorefield Yellow-Jackets 69-43 in a Potomac Valley Conference contest. Piedmont, keeping on the heels of undefeated Romney which stands 13-0 for the season and 10-0 in the league, held its opponents to 12 field goals and failed to permit more than 43 points in a game for the 10th time this season.

Richard Russell topped the scorers with 17 points for Piedmont while Marlin Evans pitched in 15 for Moorefield.

Joseph Michael Stanislawczyk, well known tri-state area basketball official and coach of the wrestling team at Keyser High School, yesterday entered the race for sheriff in Mineral County.

A native of Conemaugh, Pa., and a Democrat, Stanislawczyk played football at Potomac State College and George Washington University, and has resided in Keyser since 1946. He has been a football and basketball official for 15 years.

The Abraham Lincoln Murder Case

Here, from The Web of Conspiracy, is suspense on the grand scale—the darkest murder mystery in American history. Who cut 18 pages from Booth's diary? Why did the President's son say there was treason in the cabinet? Old ghosts walk these pages—new ones arise! A 28-page feature in February Reader's Digest.

Rolled Curb Planned On Brown Avenue

1959 City Contract
Jobs Cost $30,464

Cumberland residents will get their first look at a rolled curb and gutter when street construction on Brown Avenue is completed this spring.

City officials have been interested in the possibility of using rolled curbs when streets are built as a means of cutting construction costs. Combination curb and gutters built of concrete cost about $4.50 a foot.

Work on the project, which runs almost 1,000 feet from Gephart Drive to the new National Guard Armory, was started in October by the Cumberland Contracting Company under a $7,000 contract.

Weather Halts Job

Weather halted the job late last fall after a storm sewer to serve the area was installed.

Brown Avenue was the only new street construction project let to contract by the City of Cumberland last year, when slightly more than $30,000 of contract construction was awarded.

Projects, according to the annual report of the City Engineering Department, include:

Hill Top Drive to Baker Street storm sewer. The $8,939.15 project was awarded to the Hout Construction Company and was completed May 21.

The Little League baseball field at Constitution Park, financed by the Playground Bond Issue of 1947, was completed May 21 by Orrie Sensabaugh, contractor, for $2,824.

Tennis courts at Constitution Park, also financed by the playground bond funds, were completed June 22 by the Hout Construction Company at a cost of $6,355.50.

Test Is Slated

Resurfacing of Virginia Avenue near the B & O Subway was completed by the Cumberland Contracting Company in November at a cost of $2,452.

The sixth contract job was the paving of an alley running from Pearre Avenue to Marshall Street. It was finished in August by the Cumberland Contracting Company at a cost of $2,894.

As a test, city officials plan this year, during the start of a five-year street construction and resurfacing program, to make a test of the rolled curb and gutter on a street which is to be light surfaced.

City Building Permits Hit $37,775 Mark

Building permits issued by the City of Cumberland during January were valued at $37,775.

Included were four residences valued by prospective builders at $36,000.

Other building authorized included a garage estimated to cost $800 and three additions to residences valued at $975.

The January total falls far short of the $205,800 of permits issued last January.

So far as residential work is concerned, January's building permits are far ahead of last January's, when the high figure resulted from a $200,000 permit for a downtown store building.

The only other permits last January were one addition and one improvement to residences with a total value of $3,000, and a $2,800 addition to a business.

The January figure this year should top last year's, as the Cumberland Housing Authority was at work on its third housing project.

No permit has been issued, City Hall sources said, for the project, which is being built by the George Construction Company under a $975,375 contract.

The addition of the housing project would push the January total past the $1,000,000 mark.

Will They Ever March?

Ever since the invention of drums, marching has come naturally to children.

They have a natural rhythm. It vibrates all through them. It keeps their feet prancing, and their arms swinging.

Some children, that is.

Then there are the others.

They have the rhythm in their hearts, and in their spirits — but it doesn't come out right. Their arms and legs don't behave very well.

Polio took care of that.

For them, the March of Dimes has to keep on marching. That's the only way their treatment can continue.

Today, tonight, and for the next few days, Marching Mothers will cover Allegany County. If you open your front doors, and your hearts, and your pocketbooks — maybe some day, with treatment, the youngsters pictured above will march, too.

They sure would like that.

City Mothers To March For Dimes Drive Tonight

Mothers of Cumberland will join together tonight to conduct a door-to-door campaign to raise funds for the 1960 March of Dimes, according to Hugh A. McMullen.

More workers than last year have volunteered

Health Board Meets Monday

The Board of Health of the City of Cumberland will meet Monday at 1:30 p.m. in City Hall.

The meeting will feature a discussion on housing regulations and conditions.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech, chairman, will preside and City Attorney William R. Carscaden and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum will attend.

Invited to participate in the discussion are John J. Rowan, president of the Allegany County Commissioners; Alonza Fike, State Department of Health housing instructor; Juvenile Court Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin and Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt.

J. B. Dowling, county sanitarian, will serve as secretary.

State Education Fund Formula May Be Changed

Assembly To Weigh
Teacher Pay Plans

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Ever hear of Maryland's equalization formula?

If you've ever discussed public education costs in Maryland, you've talked about the equalization formula.

It's the most important feature of education financing. And because it involves property assessments, it is also one of the most controversial.

When the Legislature debates two rival teachers' pay plans in Annapolis next month, the equalization formula will hardly be mentioned. But it will underlie almost everything which is mentioned.

How It Works

Here's how it works:

First, a county decides how much it needs to pay for the minimum public school program required by state law. This is done by noting the number of teachers on its payroll, determining how much each teacher would be paid under a state law setting a $3,200-$5,000 scale based on experience, and adding 25 per cent of the total to cover books, paper and other overhead.

Then the county figures its share of basic state aid — $20 for each pupil and $1,000 for each classroom in the county. To this it adds income earmarked for education from the local property tax. Whatever the tax rate might be on every $100 assessed valuation of property, at least 75 cents of it must go to education.

If the sum of the basic state aid and the income from the 75-cent slice of the property tax is not enough to meet the cost of the minimum program, the state kicks in the difference. This difference comes from a kitty known as the "equalization fund," which is supplied by such general taxes as those on sales and income.

Why It's Thorny

What's so controversial about that?

That property tax rate gimmick. Why?

Because the Department of Assessments has found that in one county property assessments in general may be much closer to the real market value than the assessments in another county.

The last survey by the department showed the range runs from St. Marys and Talbot County, where property is assessed at an average 40 per cent of market value, to Baltimore City, where the assessment ratio is 64 per cent.

In St. Marys or Talbot, therefore, the department figures that the average $10,000 piece of property is assessed at $4,000. The same property in Baltimore City would be assessed at $6,400.

With each property owner paying the required 75 cents per $100 property valuation to finance education, this means the Talbot or St. Marys owner is chipping in $20 a year to finance his county's minimum education program. The average Baltimore City resident owning property worth the same amount, however, is contributing $48.

A second, larger benefit arises in low-assessment counties when equalization fund money is distributed. By keeping assessments lower than its neighbor and being required to pay only the same 75-cent rate for education, the low-assessment county raises a smaller total toward meeting its education bill and thereby gets a bigger amount in equalization funds to make up the difference.

The department survey through last month found these other assessment ratios in Maryland:

Allegany County 46.6 per cent of market value, Anne Arundel County 56.1, Calvert 40.2, Caroline 50.7, Carroll 54.3, Cecil 43.4, Charles 42.7, Dorchester 51.7, Frederick 41.2, Garrett 42, Harford 43.9, Howard 55.4, Kent 43.5, Montgomery 52.2, Prince Georges 50, Queen Annes 44.4, Somerset 49.7, Talbot 43, Washington 51.3, Wicomico 43, Worcester 52.

Rival Pay Plans

Both teacher pay-raise plans to be considered by the Legislature next month would involve changes in the equalization formula.

One plan, fostered by the Maryland State Teachers Assn., would raise the minimum required contribution from the county or Baltimore city to 85 cents per $100 of property valuation, instead of 75 cents. It also would increase basic state aid from the present $1,000 to $1,400.

The second plan, recommended by a legislative committee under Sen. William S. James, would increase basic state aid from the present $20 per pupil to $28. It also would require the counties and Baltimore City, which are now voluntarily chipping in more locally than necessary to pay teachers more than the state-required $3,200-$5,000 minimums, to continue paying at least the present amounts. These range from $3,500-$5,300 in Garrett to $4,500-$7,300 in Montgomery.

MSTA Plan

Under the MSTA plan, school officials in each county would be given a certain sum and told:

"This is yours for increasing teacher salaries as you deem wisest, provided you bring your minimum scale to at least $4,000-$6,000."

The plan would cost about 14 million dollars its first year and, some of its backers admit, would draw attention of specialists on certain critical research problems.

Frostburg State Teacher Feted On Retirement

Dr. Laura B. Harney
At College Since '53

By HOWARD WARD
News Frostburg
Correspondent

Dr. Laura B. Harney, on the staff at Frostburg State Teachers College since 1953, was honored Wednesday afternoon with a tea held in Lowndes Hall social room, on the occasion of her retirement from the faculty of the college.

Dr. Harney joined the staff as assistant librarian in 1953 and then was appointed to the English department, in which she has served until her retirement effective at the end of the first semester.

Dr. Harney, who is a native of New York State, lived in the Adirondack Mountains. She was educated in the elementary and high schools there and received her B.S., M.A. and Ed.D. degrees from New York University. She also holds a bachelor of science in librarianship from Albany State University and doctor of arts, oratory, from Staley College, Brookline, Mass. She has taught in all grades of elementary and high school and on the college level. She served as principal of Mt. Vernon Elementary School before resigning to take positions abroad.

Widely Traveled

Dr. Harney said upon being interviewed that highlights of her life occurred after she retired from teaching, and included her trips to Germany, Pakistan and Brazil.

In 1946-48 Dr. Harney was associated with the United States Military Government in Germany as an educational specialist. She conferred with German teachers, organized textbook curriculum centers, surveyed educational systems and visited German schools. Upon invitation she met with school faculties and lectured on American education. The educators of Germany at that time, she pointed out were eager to know about education in other places because for so many years before under Hitler they had been propagandized and knew nothing of the outside.

Upon her return to this country in 1948 Dr. Harney was offered a position in the American school in Rio De Janeiro, Brazil. In this school she taught English, history, social studies, mathematics in the 12th grade. Her students came from South American families, from the Embassy and the U.S. military. Again, she said, she found a great thirst for knowledge of the United States.

When she returned to the U.S. after two years she operated a gift shop in Old Forge, New York, where she now maintains a home, where she will go upon leaving Frostburg.

In 1952, Dr. Harney applied for a position with the Embassy in Pakistan and was appointed cultural affairs officer (librarian) at Karachi, Pakistan. Here she conducted programs and had charge of the information center. Her programs included displays of books from the United States. She spoke upon education, manufacturing, housing and other subjects.

Also Is Aviator

Following a day's work at the Cultural Center, Dr. Harney said, she spent the evenings with groups in teaching English, lecturing, holding panels and conducting seminars. She also taught public speaking to several groups.

Upon leaving the country, she received tribute from the staff and the students of the Government Junior Teachers' Training College, Karachi.

Upon her return to the U.S. in 1953 Dr. Harney came to Frostburg State Teachers College. She says that she expects to return to Germany and to Pakistan to visit many of the friends she made there.

Dr. Harney has also traveled widely in the United States, including Alaska, and in Canada, South America and in northern Africa. She holds a pilot's license and has written a book on aviation which has been used in many schools.

To Mark Anniversary

The 33d anniversary of Cresap Homemakers Club will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. today at the home of Mrs. John Thompson, McMullen Highway. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon.
